

MAYOR HAWLEY TO THE COUNCIL

Pertinent Suggestions of New Executive of Boise.

FALK'S DEATH KEENLY FELT

GEORGE W. PECK A VISITOR IN IDAHO.

(Special to The Herald.)
Boise, Idaho, July 25.—The message of Mayor Hawley and before the new city council at its first regular meeting was full of pertinent suggestions and recommendations for civic improvements that presage a progressive two years or the city of Boise under the management of the new administration. Attention was called to the fact that the taxable property of Boise for the year 1902 was $3,550,403.00 which has increased to $5,000,000 for the year 1903, and the message recommended that immediate steps be taken for the purpose of reducing the rate of taxation which the mayor believes can be done without curtailing the efficiency of any of the departments or interfering with any of the proposed municipal improvements.

Another recommendation was that the police force now consisting of a chief and five patrolmen, be increased to a force of eight men, one of whom shall remain in the police headquarters at night and have general charge of the night force under the direction of the chief.

Attention was also directed to the inadequate compensation of the fire department chiefs who have been compelled to engage in some other vocation and the council was recommended to put the department on a more efficient basis by increasing the salary of the chief to a figure that would justify an experienced man in devoting his whole time to it.

Other important suggestions were: That grades be established for all streets and alleys, and plats prepared showing grades and profiles of all city streets, and that sewer districts be established in accordance with natural drainage even if sewers are not to be immediately extended there.

That, as soon as proper arrangements can be made, Idaho street be paved from Sixth to Eleventh, Tenth street from Main to Front, and Eighth street from Main to Jefferson.

That a general system of parking the streets be adopted and that all unsightly fences and other obstructions be removed.

That ditches running through the main part of the city be condemned. After the council adjourned the various members congratulated Mayor Hawley upon his message and assured him of their earnest assistance and co-operation in carrying out his suggestions and recommendations.

Passing of David Falk.

It is seldom in the history of a community that the loss of a single member is more keenly felt by all classes of people than was that of Nathan Falk, pioneer merchant and citizen of Boise, who died at the home of Dr. R. L. Nourse at Halley on the 22nd inst. Mr. Falk was president and manager of the Falk Mercantile company and a brother of the late David Falk, whose death occurred in the early part of his life. He came here in 1866 when Boise was an insignificant frontier trading post, and after clerking two years went into business with his family receiving the name of D. Falk and Bro. Since that time the name of the firm has changed several times, as new members were admitted or business changed hands, but to Nathan Falk, who was always its head, is largely due the success that made the Falk Mercantile company perhaps the leading establishment of its kind in Idaho.

The same indomitable energy and foresight that promoted the interests of his private business were always generously brought to bear upon whatever his townsmen called upon the successful merchant to take the reins of any public enterprise; and in every project looking to the welfare and upbuilding of Boise he was always a leading spirit. He was an active member of the Boise school board for a number of years and did much to bring about the conditions which have made them noted for their high standard of excellence. The news of his death was received with many expressions of sorrow and his family received the sympathy of the whole community. Flags on the schools and other public buildings were half-masted and an important meeting of the city council was adjourned out of respect to his memory.

But one officer of the firm with which so many years of his life were identified was in Boise at the time of Mr. Falk's death, the vice-president, Mr. Max Mayfield. Sigmund Falk, a brother of the deceased and treasurer of the company, is traveling with his wife in Germany; William Stark, the secretary, is in New York, and Sam Meyer, a member of the firm, is also in Germany with his wife.

The funeral occurred Thursday at 5 o'clock from the magnificent family residence on Warm Springs avenue. It was conducted by Rabbi Wise of Portland and was the largest attendance of any that ever occurred in Boise.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Among the noted gentlemen who have recently visited Boise for the first time is George W. Peck, ex-governor of Wisconsin and a family as the author of "Peck's Bad Boy." Mr. Peck is a member of the Idaho Gold Mining and Development company, which owns and operates the Osborn group of claims in the Snake river and his visit here was primarily for the purpose of inspecting that property. He was accompanied by Dr. J. W. Hamer of Johnston, Penn., another member of the company. Both gentlemen were highly pleased with the showing made by the mines and will recommend to their associates the immediate installation of a large shaft which will prepare the ore for shipment to the Salt Lake smelters. This can be done at a handsome profit, as the concentrates will run from $800 to $1,000 in gold to the ton.

A BALD NEWSPAPER MAN.

Getting a New Crop of Hair, and Has No More Dandruff.

Everybody in the northwest knows Colonel Daniel Seales, the veteran journalist and publisher of Butte, Jan. 30, 1900, the colored writer: "use a couple of bottles of Newbro's Herpicide with marvelous results. The dandruff disappeared; a new crop of hair has taken root, and the bald spot is rapidly being covered." Herpicide is only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ and digs up the scalp in scales as it burrows its way to the root of the hair, causing the hair to fall out, kill the dandruff germ, with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for samples to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

CURRENCY LEGISLATION

Speaker Cannon Is Flat-footed Against the Scheme.

INTERVIEW WITH ROOSEVELT

PAYNE PREPARING TO GET OUT OF CABINET.

(Special to The Herald.)
Washington, July 25.—There is considerable speculation in Washington as to the attitude of Representative Cannon towards such financial legislation as is proposed by President Roosevelt. The last time Mr. Cannon was here he declared in his characteristically emphatic manner that he was "opposed to any such scheme of 'rubber' currency as had been proposed, and, in fact, to any currency legislation at all. It is believed that he talked the matter over with the president and convinced the latter that it was not wise to advocate a permanent increase in the currency issue of the banks, that he and others believed such a scheme to be more in the interest of Wall street than of the people of the country as a whole. Should the president include currency matters in his call for an extra session, as well as the Cuban treaty, Mr. Cannon, the speaker-to-be, will find himself placed in rather an awkward position. The last national Republican platform calls for some legislation to depress rates of interest by increasing the money supply in times of need. Strong interests are in favor of such legislation and should the president voice this sentiment and urge some such law, party policy would demand that the speaker should waive his objections. Doubtless Mr. Cannon would oppose currency legislation up to a certain point and then allow some measure to go through which might be termed a compromise.

Senator Lodge, after his visit to Oyster Bay, suggested a larger issue of currency to carry a tax of 5 per cent. This, of course, would not issue unless rates for money were higher than this, and when interest fell this extra circulation would be called in. It is too much to say that Senator Lodge's statement represents what will be found in the president's full message. It is looked upon in Washington as a distinct feeling for public opinion. If it falls flat, it will probably be abandoned, and if received with approval throughout the country as well as in New York, the plan outlined, or something based on the same idea, may be found in the administration's suggestion. A tax of 5 per cent is held to be too high by many bankers and a rate of 4 per cent may be adopted.

Any financial legislation means a prolonged and acrimonious debate in congress. While the free silver following is now small, there are many members who are suspicious of any attempt to put more power in the hands of the banks, which, in their opinion, are largely owned or controlled by a limited number of great financial interests.

Successor to Payne.

The health of the postmaster general does not improve. But for the critical condition of affairs in his department, he would undoubtedly have retired ere this. His physical condition will prevent him from remaining much longer in the cabinet and rumors of his successor are afloat. Hermann A. Kohlsaat of Chicago, formerly owner and editor of the Chicago Times-Herald, has been visiting President Roosevelt at Oyster Bay and seems to be in the lead among the possibilities. Mr. Kohlsaat has been an earnest and influential friend of the president for some years and has strong backing. For friends he has Senators Hanna and Gage. His business experience is not confined to newspapers, and he inspires among those who know him a warm devotion which speaks well for his character.

How Root Dodges.

Elihu Root has a way of dodging embarrassing questions. All manner of inquiries have been made of him at various times to make him "give up" news, but never with any success. During the Chinese troubles he did a great deal of fencing with the reporters who wanted information. "It is true," Mr. Secretary," a newspaper man asked him one day, "that Minister Conger has been instructed to demand the execution of Prince Tuan?" "No; that is not true," the secretary replied, "but General Chaffee has been instructed to send the 'poison cup' to the empress dowager."

Never were newspaper men so non-plussed as when the decision of the Supreme court on the insular cases came out. Everybody read the decision, or heard it read, and then everybody looked at everybody else, and all eyes opened at the insular cases.

The Supreme bench smiled and looked pleased, all because it had puzzled everybody and most of all puzzled itself. At the War department a delegation of newspaper men put a lot of useless questions to Mr. Root. Finally one man said: "Mr. Secretary, tell us this much: Under these decisions does the constitution follow the flag?"

Artist Whistler.

There is one phase in the life of the late James Abbott McNeill Whistler, known as the "father of modern art," in Washington is interesting as showing the incidents that shaped his career. He was an employee of the Coast and Geodetic survey, at that time known as the Coast survey. His life with his father while the latter was engaged in the construction of a railroad from St. Petersburg, Moscow, gave him a taste for Bohemian life, which deepened while he was at West Point. His drawing at that time was more remarkable for its eccentricity than its perfection, though it was never faulty. He would draw a shadow first, and then the body which caused the shadow, or he would begin with the hands and feet and afterward fill in the rest of the subject. After failing to graduate from West Point, he was put to work drawing maps in the Coast survey. The work seemed hardly worth doing to young Whistler, and the margins on his maps were crowded with engravings of queer characters he had met in his travels. Neither did it strike him as a matter of great moment that he should appear at 9 o'clock and work for six days a week. General Benham, his chief, resented to strangers to remind him every morning in time to get him to the office; but the young artist refused to be cajoled by the friendly attentions of the German, though he succeeded in keeping the latter until a late hour several mornings, inflating him into the mysteries of coffee making and persuading him of the luxury of late breakfasts. Six months was enough of government work to satisfy Mr. Whistler that map engraving was not to his liking.

He disagreed for punctuality clung to him always. An art collector visiting Paris wrote the artist that he would sell upon him at 4.30 p. m. Whistler politely replied that he had never in his life been able to keep an appointment promptly at 4.30 p. m. It is told of a purse-proud American, that he called upon the famous etcher and asked the price of all the finished work he had on hand, to which the latter replied: $4,000,000 at least; these are my posthumous prices.

Per Capita Circulation.

According to the latest statistics, the per capita circulation in the United States is 22.44. In Great Britain it is 13.25, and in Germany 13.92.

The daily output of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving is 136,000 sheets of silver and gold certificates, 25,000 to 50,000 sheets of national bank currency, 215,000 to 250,000 sheets of internal revenue stamps, and 15 to 20 million postage stamps. Three thousand persons are employed in issuing this paper money, and the system by which it is gotten out and delivered at the Treasury is considered to be the most perfect in the world.

OGDEN AND RETURN $1.00.

Via Rio Grande, Tuesday, July 28th. Leave Salt Lake at 2 p. m., returning leave Ogden about midnight. Everybody invited.

The Salt Lake City Brewing company has placed a new brand of lager beer on the market called the "Nuerenburger." The principal saloons in the city are handling it. Call for it. It is fine.

Mr. Clark has been a victim of skin disease for forty years—today he is a well man—read his story.

"I have been troubled with a terrible skin disease as far back as I can remember—fully forty years, maybe longer. I had great sores come on my legs and arms; they itched terribly; the skin would get dry and scale off, causing me much pain, inconvenience and distress. It looked to be incurable until I went to Dr. Shores about three months ago. These doctors knew what the trouble was and I began their treatment. I began to notice improvement in ten days or two weeks, and since then have steadily improved until today there is no sign of my trouble, and my skin has been clear for nearly a month now. I am feeling tip top and very grateful to Dr. Shores & Shores for their great skill. I am well known in the city, having lived here since 1882—and shall be pleased to tell anyone interested all about my case.

Safe From Summer Complaints

All mammas, and papas too for that matter, dread the heat of summer with its danger for the little folks, especially the babies. It is simply heart-breaking to read year after year about the great death rate among children caused by the summer's heat. Yet it is easy to protect the infants against all summer complaints, because we know that all these fearful perils have their beginning in stomach and bowel troubles, and we have a perfect family medicine that will keep the delicate machinery in a child's body clean, regular and in healthy working order in the hottest weather—CASCARETS Candy Cathartic. The plump, bouncing, crowing baby shown here is a CASCARET baby. He feels that way winter and summer. Nursing mammas take a CASCARET at bedtime, and it makes their mother's milk mildly purgative and keeps the baby just right. Older children like to take the fragrant, sweet little candy tablet, and are safe from colic, gripes, diarrhoea, summer rash, prickly heat and all the mean troubles that summer brings with it.
